Great job!

Your introduction looks pretty good. It is common in such documents to state that the game will be referred to for the rest of the document as "the software" or similar.

The overall description is improved.

The interfaces are better.

Your functional requirements continue to be thorough.

Your non-functional requirements are good though I find some of them to be vague: "The program shall start in the correct way ..."

The spelling and grammar are good, with only a few odd verb tenses.

Good improvements from the previous draft though few improvements beyond what I specifically marked in the text.
